Welcome!

Hello and welcome to all those who have recently signed up to receive news about Christianity.org.uk.

And thank you friends, old and new, for your support.

We've got loads of new articles to share with you (see below!)

In 2023, more people than ever have been finding Christianity.org.uk. Each year more people are hearing the Good News told clearly, in a balanced and unbiased way.

Every week we have many online conversations with people across the world about Christianity - helping people grow in their faith and find a good local church, and praying for all who ask.

And a third of all initial enquiries to our site are people looking to become Christians. We are delighted to help them get started on this most precious of journeys.

Thank you so much for walking with us on this adventure.

New! Testimonies

We're delighted to bring a new Testimonies/Faith Journeys page to Christianity.org.uk.

Working with Fuelcast, we're featuring short videos of real people growing in faith, to encourage and inspire both Christians and those who are still looking.

Look out for many more in the coming months...

Ghosts and ghouls

Whether we like it or not, there's a growing interest out there in the supernatural.

Christianity.org.uk is well placed to provide good Christian information to those who are seeking, especially at this time of year.

Popular articles include:

The occult

What's the history of Halloween?

Body image

Poet and storyteller, Ali Tinson, has written a beautiful piece and poem about her struggles with body image, and learning to see herself how God sees her.

Read her story and watch her read the poem here.

New articles

We are constantly updating our website with new and relevant articles.

Enquirers from Muslim backgrounds

At Christianity.org.uk, we don't seek to proselytise or preach, but simply provide information to those wanting to know more about God.

We are often contacted by former Muslims or people from Muslim backgrounds, so were delighted when a UK vicar, with many former Muslim congregants, offered to write an article for our site, with such people in mind.

You can read it here.

Evangelism and AI

We were asked to write an article for Baptists Together magazine about evangelism and AI, and why we believe that the human touch is still needed.

Read it here.

QR code for churches

We've created a QR code, which is free to use for churches.

Just add it to your newsletter/website/banner and it will take people straight through to the live version of Christianity.org.uk, which is always being updated.

Enquirers will be able to speak anonymously to a real Christian, and be offered prayer. We always encourage enquirers to attend their home church.

What we offer

As well as providing up-to-date information for anyone who's looking into Christianity, our website offers a number of other services, all completely free of charge:

Prayer

We pray there and then for anyone who requests prayer. We also anonymise the request and send it to our faithful team of pray-ers.

Answers to Questions

People contact us through the blue square on each page, and a real Christian will listen to them, and answer their questions about faith.

Find a church

We help many people to discover a range of welcoming churches near them, and try to suggest at least one that runs a course such as Alpha or Christianity Explored.

Donate

We are a charity, and work solely from grants and donations. With this in mind, if you are able to donate to the work of telling people about Jesus, we would be most grateful.

ABOUT US

Our aim is to tell people about Jesus Christ and Christianity. We try to reflect a conventional, moderate Christian view. We do not represent just one denomination or one viewpoint. Where Christians disagree on some issues, we try to reflect those differences fairly.
