FILMS - INSPIRATION - EDUCATION

Roger,

After a hectic few months, we are now getting ready to launch our latest film in the award-winning Cornwall's Climate Stories series – Power to the People.

This film looks at the crucial issue of Cornwall's energy future and is launching with a series of public screenings from late April - see booking info below.

Power to the People, presented by Cornish surfer and geologist Lucy Cotton explores the exciting opportunities, huge challenges and frustrating problems facing us in our efforts to wean ourselves off fossil fuels.

We're looking forward to bringing you the trailer very soon - keep an eye out for it on our social media!

What's in the film?

Just a few of the stories covered include...

- a huge floating offshore wind development planned off the north Cornish coast, which could ultimately generate 30- 40% of the entire country's electricity.
- a farmer who's found a way to combine food production with solar panels.
- looking to the past for inspiration – from traditionally coppiced firewood to the hot water in our abandoned tin mines.
- the amazing energy potential of the rocks beneath our feet – now being brought to the surface from deep geothermal wells drilled over 5km down towards the Earth's core.

Multiple preview screenings are taking place, along with Q&As with the filmmakers and expert contributors, on the following dates. Click on the links below to book your screening.

Now for something completely different.....!

We're cracking out our rucksacks and heading off on expedition... and we'd love it if you could support us - or even join us if you're feeling adventurous...

We're aiming to complete a challenging 15-mile route around some of the most iconic sites in West Penwith on April 6 as part of the nationwide Big Green Hike.

During the hike we'll be visiting some of the people and places that feature in Power to the People, as well as contributors to previous films in the Cornwall's Climate Stories series and some of the magical prehistoric sites in this ancient landscape.

We need to raise funds to complete our next documentary, on climate and housing, which is already in production - as well as another film exploring attitudes and misinformation around the climate crisis. We're also fundraising to continue delivering our much-valued school workshops and community events.

We would be super grateful if you could make a pledge to support our work and keep us motivated on our long walk here:

Or, if you'd like to walk with our group on the day, we'd love the chance to get to know more like-minded folk. Please get in touch on cornwallclimate@gmail.com so we can arrange where and when to meet and discuss fundraising support.

If you would like to discuss organising screenings of our films in your communities or organisations, please contact us on: cornwallclimate@gmail.com

If you are interested in school climate workshops please contact our education coordinator Hayley Hill here
