NEW BUS SERVICES

Bus services in Cornwall are set to further improve from April 2020.

A new package of supported services is being introduced with improved frequencies and routes, reduced fares for passengers, better links with rail, integrated school transport services and more environmentally friendly buses.

A new eight-year contract has been awarded to Go Cornwall Bus, a subsidiary of national company Go-Ahead, to deliver a network of council subsidised local bus routes which are essential to local residents but are not commercially viable. There will also be new services and improvements to existing routes.

Rail passenger numbers continue to grow with regular half-hourly locally stopping trains, doubling the frequency of off-peak services in each direction between Penzance and Plymouth, providing over 7,000 extra seats each weekday.

FAIRTRADE FORTNIGHT 2020

Fairtrade Fortnight, which runs from February 24 to March 8, is focusing on Year 2 of the living incomes campaign, especially on cocoa and the special role that farmers play in the journey to living incomes.

What is a living income? A living income means earning enough money to live a simple but dignified life, paying for essentials such as food, clothing, medicine and school. The simplest way we can support cocoa farmers is to buy Fairtrade chocolate which is available in most major supermarkets.

Fairtrade Fortnight is an excellent opportunity to raise the profile of Fairtrade. Why not have a Fairtrade stall or coffee morning in your church or run an assembly at your local school?

INCLUSION - ISN'T THAT WHAT JESUS DID SO WELL?

Is there a difference between welcoming someone and making someone feel included? And if so, which should come first? These are questions that Revd Dom Whitting asked himself when putting together the guide, Welcoming All God's People. As chair of the Equality and Diversity Committee for the Diocese of Truro, Dom spends a lot of time thinking about the dynamics of welcome and inclusion and, despite our best intentions, how painful it can be when we get it wrong.

"I think we can either be good at one or the other, and not easily both," says Dom. "We can make someone feel welcome but how can we include them going forward? Do we ask them to join a rota because we have a space to fill? That might make someone feel included, but not necessarily very welcome."

There is no pat answer, as each church is different, and each person walking through the door doing so for different reasons. So what are those reasons?

To connect with God and others who share their faith? To connect with someone, anyone – are they perhaps lonely? Curious? Seeking something 'other' or just like the idea of being part of something in a historic building. Whatever the reasons, the welcome should be the same. Warm, generous and open – accepting people for whoever they are and whatever their reasons, with no judgement or barriers to a holy space and precious time with God.

With loneliness epidemic, churches, as community cornerstones, are ideally placed to combat the problem. Age UK estimate that over 1.4 million of over 75s are chronically lonely, yet, ironically it is the young in plain sight who are more likely to describe themselves as 'always or often lonely'.

How can the church respond? If we don't believe in them, how can we expect them to believe in a God who loves them?

FIRST TREES PLANTED AS FOREST FOR CORNWALL PROJECT GROWS

The 'Forest for Cornwall' was kick-started last month with the first 105 trees of the programme being planted in Saltash. The project is part of the council's bigger Climate Change Plan and has been made a priority following research which put the planting of new trees in the top three actions requested by the public.

The project will create new woodlands and copses and will plant trees in Cornwall's countryside and towns, it will increase hedgerows and what is called 'canopy cover'.

CHRISTIANITY & CREATION: GREEN DISCIPLESHIP FOR CORNWALL

The detrimental effects of human activity on the natural world have been well-known for many years, but during 2019 they rose dramatically up the public consciousness, due at least in part to demonstrations led by groups such as Extinction Rebellion and the involvement of young people all over the world.

For Christians, the natural world which we have the privilege to inhabit is created by God, for us both to enjoy and to care for, but that understanding brings with it significant challenges to our discipleship.

In Cornwall, work has been going on for some years through the Diocese of Truro to help both individual Christians and their churches to live more gently on the earth, and to equip them to take a lead in their communities on caring for creation.

The Christianity & Creation: Green Discipleship for Cornwall four-week course is designed to help Christian groups think through the environmental crisis facing us today from a Christian perspective and to begin to make some decisions about the changes to all our lifestyles that so urgently need to be made. The course can be used over any four or five week period, but it is offered here particularly for use in Lent 2020, following the Archbishop of Canterbury's encouragement to the whole Church of England to make caring for God's creation a focus of our Lent reflections in 2020.
